INDUSTRY & COMPANY TRENDS

* Industry Forecast Sales for the US childcare centers are forecast to grow at a 6.45% compounded annual rate from 2021 to 2026, faster than the growth of the overall economy (1).

* Steady Growth for Key Demographic. The population of children aged 5 and under is projected to grow at a steady rate for the next decade driving increasing demand for preschool and childcare services. High quality, affordable early education services are critical for dual-income families and single parents. Almost two thirds of mothers with children under age 6 are in the workforce. The need for preschool and childcare has been steady or increased as being ready for kindergarten is seen as critical and not optional.

High-Quality early education is a hallmark of this business offering.

* Growth in per capita disposable income is expected to benefit the industry as preschool services are likely to remain in high demand. The state regulations have defined preschool and child care as a critical service. The school did not need to shut down during the pandemic. Its client base is dual income families and single mothers who must work, many in critical services as defined by the state. Clients stay with the school for years (often for 5 years) to the extent it is possible based on their situation. As a first-tier suburban city of St. Paul, is a very attractive location for raising families and a magnet for government jobs.
